6.2 Presentation by representative of the Nevada Department of Agriculture regarding the Status of the Organic Certification Program. 4:09 PM

Addendum Item

Mayor Schieve called for public comment.

Mark O'Farrell, 175 River Road, Dayton, a Nevada farmer and post-Chair of the Organics Advisory Council, discussed the motives of the Department of Agriculture (NDA) in pursuing the termination of the Organic Certification Program.

COUNCIL MEMBER BREKHUS PRESENT AT 4:12 P.M.

Nicole Sallaberry, 128 High Street, Organics Advisory Council and co-founder of the Great Basin Food Co-op, discussed the lack of transparency by the NDA around the Organic Certification Program.

Dustin Drummer, 2540 Sharon Way, discussed NDA's lack of transparency with respect to the Organic Certification Program.
Rob Holley, P.O. Box 471, Dayton, farmer and member of the Nevada Organics Advisory Council, discussed the NDA's campaign to eliminate the organics program.

Amber Sallaberry, 240 Court Street, co-founder of the Great Basin Food Co-op, discussed consumer demand for their products.

Council Member Brekhus disclosed that she is a member of the Great Basin Food Co-op and her husband is the President of the Board. She said that she had not spoken with them about this issue.

Ashley Jeppson, Marketing Improvement Program Manager for the NDA, said that this action is purely budgetary and nothing personal or political. She provided a brief history of the program and accreditation process, the hope the program would eventually become self-sustaining, and how the organic requirements are creating hardships on other agencies.

Council Member Duerr and Ms. Jeppson discussed the fee structure; $120,000 cost of the program, which is based on the number of personnel required to implement it and overhead expenses; and the $65,000 budget shortfall.

Rebecca Allured, Public Information Officer, said that piece-meal funding made it difficult to identify the $65,000 deficit until the program was audited.

Council Member Duerr asked how long the program will continue, and Ms. Allured said that while it is up to the Board to decide, current licenses are good through March 2016.

Council Member Duerr suggested that the City send a letter of support for this program to the NDA, and asked if the NDA could reallocate funds from other programs to this one.

Ms. Allured said that reallocating dollars to this program might come at the expense of other important programs.

COUNCIL MEMBERS BOBZIEN AND MCKENZIE ABSENT AT 4:49 P.M.

THERE WAS NO QUORUM AFTER THE DEPARTURE OF COUNCIL MEMBERS BOBZIEN AND MCKENZIE.
Mayor Schieve and Scott Gilles, Legislative Relations Program Manager, discussed options the City can take to support the Organic Certification Program.
